Data protection is becoming more complex and sophisticated all of the time. The cost to an organisation of maintaining the appropriate level of service and security in-house is growing; this coupled with a shortage of qualified personnel is compounding the challenge of protecting critical data.

With organisations seeking to increase efficiency, spending valuable time away from core business activities on data protection and management is both unrealistic and costly.

Equally important as the cost of managing these vital services is the cost of not doing so properly. Data loss happens; human error, hardware failure and security breaches can happen at any time and put your company's future in jeopardy. Ask yourself, what would be the impact on reputation and cost if you had to go without crucial data, financial records became corrupted or if your customer database was lost forever?

d-stor is an easy-to-implement online backup solution which protects both remote and office laptops, desktops and servers. d-stor protects all of your valuable company data including Microsoft Exchange, SQL applications, PST files, documents, spreadsheets, photos, videos and database files.

Using the cloud for backup and restoration of key data is a simple and cost-effective way to automate this essential process. In addition, it enables the user to access their files from anywhere. Not only is the users information protected, but as d-stor is an online service, users can access important files at any time regardless of where they might be.

d-stor is priced on an inclusive pay-as-you-go monthly model based on the volume of data stored on your servers. Monthly charges are therefore predictable with no nasty surprises.
